Paralysis—Mr. Roosevelt's Great Example

Today Good Health Is the Privilege of All

All over Arkansas this week local committees have launched their campaign for funds with which to fight the scourge of infantile paralysis. Dedicated to President Roosevelt and his own conquest of this dread disease, the campaign is always held in celebration of the president's birthday at the end of the month.

7-Year Review of AAA Shows Cash to State

Farmers' 1939

AAA Figures

From the AAA

The story of agriculture today in Arkansas is the story of an improved agriculture. Some of the highlights of progress under the farm program in Arkansas in the seven years since it started are:

Income: Farmers make more money—1939 cash income of Arkansas farmers was $159,583,000, up 105 per cent from 1932 when it was $78,000,000.

Conservation: Farmers are conserving their soil—290,000 Arkansas farmers participated in the 1939 AAA program, representing about 95 per cent of the state's cropland.

Democracy: Farmers help run the program—75 county AAA offices with 2,880 county and community committees administer the AAA farm program locally.

Substantial gains in cash income from 1932 to 1939 by producers of Arkansas' most important farm products are shown in the following table:

Commodity	Cash Income 1932	1939
Cotton lint	45,239	64,267
Hogs	2,215	11,230
Cattle and calves	1,772	10,458
Corn	5,038	10,371
Milk	6,183	8,852
Rice	3,026	5,731
Chickens	1,402	4,816
Eggs	2,480	3,988
Peaches	233	1,062
Truck crops	1,251	1,663
Corn	690	1,294
Sweet potatoes	465	1,031

All income figures in this table exclude government payments.

Cash Income and AAA Payments

	Cash	AAA
1936	142,373	5,261
1937	146,098	10,421
1938	133,049	21,250
1939	125,721	27,007

Farm purchasing power: Both farm income and prices paid by farmers declined sharply from 1929 to 1932, but farm income declined more. From 1932 to 1939 there was an increase in both farm income and prices paid by farmers, but farm income increased more. Thus buying power fell off from 1929 to 1932, and climbed upward from 1932 to 1939. In Arkansas, farm purchasing power in 1939 was 187 per cent as much as in 1932 and 104 per cent of the 1929 level. Thus in 1939 Arkansas farmers were in a position to buy 87 per cent more of the things they needed than in 1932, and 4 per cent more than in 1929.

Farm real estate values: Gains in farm income, prices and buying power have been reflected in rising real estate values on Arkansas farms. In the year ending March 1933 the value of farm real estate was only 80 per cent of the period before the world war. From this low point the esti-

Finnon Burks to Die Feb. 21

Death Warrant Signed by Acting Governor

BATON ROUGE, La. —(AP)— Acting Governor Marc Mouton Wednesday signed the death warrant for Horace Finnon Burks, convicted of the murder of J. P. Calloway, Houston (Tex.) salesman, and set February 21 for the date of hanging.

Burks was convicted last year as an accomplice of Mrs. Annie Beatrice Henry, whose conviction on a murder charge at a separate trial was set aside by the Louisiana Supreme court and a new trial fixed for February 3.

What is the object of this nationwide drive against infantile paralysis? Let us quote President Roosevelt's own words in defining the purpose of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., spoken at its organization January 3, 1938:

"We all know that improper care during the acute stage of the disease, and the use of antiquated treatment, or downright neglect of any treatment, are the cause of thousands of crippled, twisted, powerless bodies now. Much can be done along these lines right now. The new foundation will carry on a broad-gauged educational campaign, prepared under expert medical supervision, and this will be placed within the reach of the doctors and the hospitals of the country. The practicing physician is in reality the front line fighter of the sickness, and there is much existing valuable knowledge that should be disseminated to him.

"And then there is also the tremendous problem as to what is to be done with those hundreds of thousands already ruined by the after-effects of this affliction. To investigate, to study, to develop every medical possibility of enabling those so afflicted to become economically independent in their local communities will be one of the chief aims of the new foundation. But in a general way, the American people must consider this drive against infantile paralysis as simply another demonstration of the principle of democracy—the protection against slavery or cure for it, belonging as much to the poor as to the rich.

Until the coming of representative government it was the habit of nations to let each family look after its own health as best it could.

In medieval England, and in colonial America, small pox scourges swept the cities; the rich fled to safety, if possible, but the poor died inexorably.

Democratic government today, in the republic of the United States and the empire of Britain, does not put up with such injustices. No scourge can be permitted to ravage the nation, state, or city. The whole will of the people is bent to one objective: To lift the terror of disease from the heart of mankind, irrespective of wealth or station, creed or race.

Mr. Roosevelt, himself a wealthy man, was once struck down by infantile paralysis. Determined he beat the disease. Equally determined, he made public both his example and his objective so that the weight of his high office might be loaned to the aid of all the afflicted people of his country.

And for that all men admire man, and all are resolved to do something today for the nation's greatest single resource—its good health.

Supreme Court Pension Bill Is Introduced

Half-Pay for Justices Over 70 Would Effect Two Immediately

LITTLE ROCK —(AP)— Retirement on half-pay of veteran members of the Arkansas Supreme Court who have reached the age of 70 would be provided under a senate bill introduced Wednesday by Gooch of Wynne.

Two members of the present court, Associate Justices T. M. McHaffey, 81, and T. H. Humphreys, 75, would be immediately eligible for retirement. Associate Justice Basil Baker, 70, would be eligible under the age limit but has served only six years. Minimum service of 10 years would be required.

Constitutional Proposal
Shepherd of Russellville proposed a constitutional amendment to prohibit creation of any additional tax-supported educational, eleemosynary, correctional or penal institutions in the state. The legislature is authorized to propose three amendments for action at the next general election.

Other bills introduced in a 27-minute morning session of the senate included:

Proposals by Combs of Springfield to prohibit killing of homing pigeons.

By Pilkinton of Hope to provide for fresh pursuit of criminals across county and municipal lines.

By Rowell of Jefferson to permit killing of deer by bow and arrow one week in advance of the regular season.

In the house a proposed constitutional amendment to create a 1,000-bed charity hospital at Little Rock was introduced by H. H. Pickering of Ashley.

The measure would authorize levying of a 3-mill ad valorem property tax to finance the institution and would authorize use of Confederate Home property southeast of the capitol as the site for the building.

Resolutions Proposed

The house introduced two concurrent resolutions.

1. Clee of Washington would authorize appointment of an old age pension committee of nine house and five senate members to confer with Gov. Adkins on ways and means for raising revenues for old age pensions.

2. Weisenberger of Hempstead called upon congress to provide federal funds for public assistance grants without the requirement of state-matching "in all instances where it may be determined that the state has contributed up to its maximum ability."

A concurrent resolution for a special memorial service of both houses for the late Rep. Leo E. Nyberg of Phillips was adopted by the house after a speech by Ernest Maner of Garland in tribute to Nyberg's activities in behalf of the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

The committees on memorial of both chambers were authorized to prepare for the service on a date to be determined later.

Ozan Woman Is Accident Victim

Mrs. Ada Goodlett in Series of Auto Accidents

Mrs. Ada Goodlett of Ozan, victim of a series of accidents the past few days, was in the Josephine hospital here Wednesday suffering from injuries received when struck by a car near Ozan the early part of the week.

The accidents started last Friday when a car which Mrs. Goodlett was driving collided with a truck on the Washington-Hope highway. The car was brought to the Archer Motor Co. here to be repaired. When she entered the car to go home after necessary repairs were made it was in reverse and smashed a plate glass window of the Motor Co.

The following day she stepped from behind a Missouri Pacific bus parked at Ozan and was struck down by passing motorist. She sustained severe bruises and is suffering from shock. Hospital attendants said Wednesday that she was "resting well."

Germans May Send Troops to Africa

Nazi Aerial Attack on British Fleet Expected to Pave Way

LONDON —(AP)—Strong aerial attacks on the British Mediterranean fleet probably will be made by the Nazi air force, military sources said Wednesday, to clear the way for shipment of German troops to Africa.

These sources characterized the attack by German dive bombers on a British naval flotilla January 10 as "the first gun of the offensive."

Military sources in London said that if the German Luftwaffe units based in Sicily were able to destroy British naval supremacy in the Mediterranean Germany would undoubtedly begin sending troops across the Sicilian Channel which lies between Sicily and Tunisia to bolster Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's harried forces in Libya.

Despite the potential danger of such an offensive there was little fear in London that the Germans would be successful.

Dealing with the air situation, well-informed circles noted that the Germans would be operating from "make-shift" bases against the RAF flying from "well protected and well equipped" bases.

F. D., Wheeler in Sharp Clash

President Angered by Thrust at British Aid

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Displaying more anger than he has shown in many a day, President Roosevelt Tuesday asserted that critics of his aid-to-Britain plan were guilty of the "rottenest" and "most dastardly" untruths when they charged that the plan would result in "plowing under every fourth American child."

The president named no names at a press conference, but Senator Wheeler (Dem., Mont.), opponent of the Roosevelt plan, said in a speech Sunday night that "the lend-lease-give program is the New Deal's Triple A foreign policy—plow under every fourth American boy." As soon as he heard of the president's remarks Tuesday, Wheeler retorted that "apparently the president lost his temper."

The president's remarks came during a discussion of the recently introduced bill giving him broad powers to supply war materials and otherwise assist countries battling the Axis powers. A reporter noted that the bill had been called a blank check, and asked for the president's comment on that.

Mr. Roosevelt said he supposed the best way to put it was to suggest that someone write him another bill that could not be so labeled and that would accomplish the same objectives.

"That is not an answer," he asserted, "to those, at all, who talk about plowing under every fourth American child, which I regard as the most untruthful, as the most dastardly, unpatriotic thing that has ever been said. Quote me on that."

"That really is the rottenest thing that has been said in public life in my generation."

A good time to kill a poor slogan, he added, was at its birth. He said the slogan had been used by several

Navy Asks for 400 Small Ships

280 Vessels 'Urgently Needed' Robinson Asserts

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Navy asked congress Wednesday for authority to build 400 small vessels including sub chasers, mine sweepers and torpedo boats, and asked also for extra facilities to construct them.

Rear Admiral Samuel Robinson, chief of the Bureau of Ships, informed the house naval committee that 280 of the vessels were "urgently needed" and that congress should be asked for $10,460,000 and 25,000,000 for building facilities.

The bulk of the small craft, to be completed in a year, would be constructed on the Great Lakes.

Earlier the committee unanimously endorsed the Navy's request for 300 million-dollar strengthening of the fleet's anti-aircraft power.

Rear Admiral W. R. Furlong, chief of ordnance, told the committee a major part of the program would involve the installation aboard larger warships of a new type of 5-inch anti-aircraft gun which he said was "the best we have ever had." He said it was effective 31,000 feet in the air and had a much greater horizontal range.

In addition to the new gun the committee was told the program provides for "splinter protection" for gun crews and other deck personnel.

Naval Recruiting Party to Nashville

A naval recruiting party will visit Nashville, Ark., Wednesday, January 22, for the purpose of interviewing and conducting preliminary physical examinations of all young men between the ages of 18 and 31 who are interested in naval enlistment. This temporary office will be located in the old courthouse in Nashville and will be open from 8:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. on that date. Young men in these age brackets should carefully consider the unusual opportunity offered now; there are no long delays for those qualified as there have been during intermediate periods of stagnation in the past.

Speed-up on Legislation of Defense Urged

Would Give Unlimited Supplies to Britain, Other Say Fascist Troops

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Summoning the nation "to invoke the law of defense before it is too late" Secretary Hull urged on congress Wednesday the enactment of legislation for unlimited supplies to Britain and other nations "battling a world movement of conquest."

Hull testified before the house foreign affairs committee in support of Roosevelt's lease-lend bill. He was the first witness on this historic legislation and he expressed the belief it was "absolutely necessary" to the nation's defense.

In a statement of about 3,500 words he also said that if the Atlantic ocean "fell into German control" it would offer little or no assurance of security.

"Were Britain defeated and were she to lose command of the seas, Germany could easily cross the Atlantic, especially the South Atlantic, unless we were ready and able to do what Britain is doing now," he said.

Hull also took occasion to voice some of the strongest condemnation of the expansionist policies of Japan in the Far East which has been uttered by the administration.

Among other things, he said Japan's "new order" would lead, economically, to "impoverishment" of invaded parts of the Orient; and, socially, to "destruction of personal liberties and the reduction of conquered peoples to the role of inferiors."

Greeks Smash Italian Attack

Fascists Troops Retreat Hastily, Leaving Dead

By the Associated Press
Greece's mountain fighters reported Wednesday they smashed two Italian counter attacks in the drive north from Klisura in central Albania, compelling the Fascists to retire in such haste they left dead and wounded on the battlefield.

Then, the Greeks said, they resumed their advance toward Berat.

"The first assault was easily repelled," a Greek spokesman said.

"The second assault turned even worse. The Italians suffered even heavier losses. They gave up and returned to their positions in disorder."

Bad weather caused a lull in the air siege of Britain during the night, but RAF bombers flew through "dirty" skies to pound Nazi air bases, shipping, and a railway bridge in German-occupied Norway. Two direct hits were reported on a motor ship in Stavanger, Norway.

London's millions enjoyed another night of quiet, wondering at the continued absence of German raiders since Sunday night.

With the arrival of daylight, however, Nazi bombers returned to the assault. A lone raider machine-gunned a village in northern Scotland and dropped a single bomb.

Reports reaching Struga, Yugoslavia, said Albanian guerrillas were raiding Fascist lines of communications and ammunition depots, thus complicating Italian efforts to stem the Greek advance.

Two Albanian battalions organized by Italians were said to have been disbanded because they refused to fight the Greeks.

There was little news from the North African front as the British continued preparations for an assault on surrounded Tobruk. RAF planes continued their search of the Libyan coast for Fascist officers believed to have escaped from Bardia by motorboat.

Paralysis Drive to Get Underway Thursday

Members of the different club committees who have been appointed to aid in the Infantile Paralysis, which is now underway, are asked to meet at Hope city hall Thursday morning at 9:30.

A large number of citizens have volunteered to help collect funds for crippled children and the soliciting downtown is expected to be completed in a short while.

Today's Senate Not Like Old

Nobody Now Carries Firearms Onto Senate Floor

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON — To the handful of new senators who are just settling in their chairs for the first time, "Don'ts in the senate that might have been" is a long list. "Don't carry firearms onto the senate floor." Just because Vice President Van Buren used to preside with a brace of pistols in his jeans, don't think it's an old senate custom to come to work armed. Since the days when Senator Foust of Mississippi drew his trusty derringer on a colleague and some years later when Senator Saulsbury tried to shoot the sergeant-at-arms, packing a gun in the senate has been looked on with high disfavor. There's even a rule that you have to check your six-gun at the door.

2. Don't invite ladies to visit you on the senate floor.
There was a day, as one lady observer put it, when "The Senate chamber was crowded to crushing with ladies. I never go on such squeezing occasions." And again when "It was supposed yesterday there were 300 ladies, besides their beaus on the floor of the senate." Those days are gone forever. As far back as 1924, "Something of a sensation was caused by entrance of a woman to the floor, outside the bar, accompanied by two senators. It proved to be Frau Schreiber, who, being a member of the German Reichstag was entitled to the privilege of the floor." The gallery is the place for women nowadays.

3. Don't prepare any speeches with the idea that you are going to deliver them on the floor and sway any pending legislation.

Sen. Carter Glass: "In the 28 years I have been a member of one or the other branches of congress, I have never known a speech to change a vote."

4. If it is your custom to toss off an occasional highball, don't expect to buy one in the Capitol corridors. As long as a hundred years ago there was a rule against sale of liquor in the Capitol. One observer, however, visiting the Capitol cafe, noticed that "You go there and ask for pale sherry and they hand you gin; brown sherry and it is brandy; madeira, whisky." And as recently as Vice President Curtis day, when he consented to the planting of a prohibition agent in the Capitol, they caught the "congressional bootlegger" with an embarrassing list of his clients. But those days are gone.

5. If you're a chain smoker of cigars or cigars or can't clamp your teeth together without a pipstems between them, better get yourself a new habit at once.

Not so very long ago, Sen. "Ben" Tillman, to whom tobacco smoking was obnoxious, waged a successful one-man battle to bar smoking on the floor. The only concession was "except during executive sessions." Cheer up through Vice President Wallace may be as lenient as the late Vice President Curtis, who often in long sittings would declare an "executive session," clear the galleries, close the doors and give the boys a chance to puff to their hearts' content. If you just have to have your tobacco, try snuff. In the memory of somebody still alive, no doubt, there were great silver urns in the senate, filled always with the choicest and most fragrant "Maccaboy" and "Old Scotch." And as recently as the days of the late Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Sr., when some member suggested changing a senate custom, Senator Lodge exclaimed, "Will they take away even our snuff boxes?"

Said sale is made for the purpose of paying the debts of said estate, and purchasers at such sale will be required to give note with approved surety for the purchase price, and a lien will also be retained on the land to secure the payment of the purchase price.

Elyse Knox May Prove Moguls Were Right Hiring Models—RKO Pleased With Her on the basis of reliable statistics, they may expect 79 rainy, 72 cloudy, and 214 clear days.

Soccer football, introduced into Paraguay from England 40 years ago, has become one of its most popular sports.

HOLLYWOOD — Another of those "most photographed faces in America" has begun to go places in the movies, and if there are many more models like Elyse Knox the film makers may yet be repaid for their proceeding to the kitchen where he dumped the bag.

"They cost too much."
She bit her lip. Now what was she going to do? How was she going to get him out of here? It had never occurred to her that Paul would appear in casually, as he used to do before Bill went away.

"Go on finish the job," he said. "I had your lunch? I thought not. I'll fix something. And I've got a lot of stuff here for a picnic lunch on the road."
"On the road?"
"You didn't think I believed that stall about talking the train?" In the first place, the camp's a couple of miles out of town, you'd have to find a bus or taxi. In the second place, I knew darned well you'd start out in that rattletrap. And get stuck somewhere on the road."

SHE was so astonished she didn't know what to say. Uneasily, she went back to finish her hair. She towed it vigorously, afterward, and set it herself, with newly clumsy fingers. Paul mustn't go with her tomorrow. It had been a whole month since she saw Bill. There'd be so much to say to each other, little things. And besides...

Her eyes were troubled when she came into the kitchen. "Look, Paul, you simply can't horn in on the first time Bill and I see each other!"
He was opening a can of peas. One of her aprons was tied haphazardly around his waist. He said slowly, "I guess you're right. I didn't think about that." He dumped the peas into a saucepan. "Tell you what, you take my car."

"No, thanks. I might smash it up."
"It's insured. Go on, Martha, take it. You know darned well Peg isn't going to stand the trip."
She hated to give in, but she had a sudden vision of herself and Bill getting into the car, riding far away from the camp—really spending the day together, as if the Army had never existed. "All right."

He began to set the table, and automatically, she reached for the knives and forks and helped him. They cleaned up together, afterward. She washed the dishes and he dried them.

"And this is how I'm never going to be alone with Paul any more," she thought bitterly. "I have no spine, that's all. I ought to tell him he mustn't come here again. It doesn't look well."
Paul was silent, wielding the dish cloth, putting the things away. Once he said absently, "I always liked these plates. Saw them in a window once, remember, when we were walking on Broad street?"

But she didn't remember. He said, "Oh, you liked them, too." She wondered, wretchedly, if it had been one of those times when she'd talked about how she'd furnish the home they were to have together.

THE kitchen spic and span, they went into the living room, Butch padding along behind them. "I've got lots of things still to do," Martha said uncomfortably, as Paul settled himself in the red leather chair. "I meant to iron my dress, and wash some things."
But Paul didn't take the hint. He only sat there, his pipe in his hand, giving her a direct, unreadable look.

"What's the matter with you, Martha?" he demanded at last. "This whole week you've been acting very strange. You've stalled me off every single night, sneaked out today, snubbed me in the office. I promised Bill I'd take care of you, didn't I? You don't seem to be giving me much of a chance."
"I can take care of myself!" she told him. "It was nice of you and Suzanne to rally around, those first two weeks. But now—"

"Now, what? Now you don't want me bothering you? Is that it?"
ALL at once, he was out of the chair, taking a swift step toward her. His hand touched hers. He looked down at her very gravely. "Something's happened to you, Martha. I've been feeling it all week. You're different. Edging away, stiff, irritable. What is it? Have I said something—done anything to offend you?"
"Oh, no, of course not." She snatched her hand away and retreated swiftly. "It's simply that I realized I was—well, depending on you pretty solidly for company, Paul. That isn't fair to you. You have your own life. I'm not really your responsibility. After all, Bill and I are only your friends. Why should you bother with me so much that I take up all your time?"

"But I want to bother! I want to be with you, help you, make things easier for you while he's away. Haven't the three of us always—"

"Yes," she cried uncontrollably, in a small, choked voice. "Yes, Paul, that's just it. The three of us!"

Okla. Champs to Play Willisville

Nevada Girls Team Has Impressive Record

Byng High School of Ada Oklahoma, a team that has won the Oklahoma high school championship four years, will play Willisville girls at Willisville Friday, January 17, in a game that brings two of the best girls' tennis in the south together.

Ada is present champions of Oklahoma and Willisville has defeated the Arkansas state champions three times this season, as well as some of the strongest teams in south Arkansas. Neither team has been tied or defeated this season.

The Willisville team is composed of Louise Shackelford, Floie Martin, Herring and Dorothy Gene Waters, forwards, Ruth Herrick, Imogene Munn, Merlene Martin and Margaret Herring and Mary Lea Bailey, guards.

Such qualities don't make an actress, necessarily. But it happens that Miss Knox has been in Hollywood more than a year, has just been given a new contract by RKO, and is playing her first real leading role—in a picture called "Show Business." Everyone is pleased with her. She had a couple of so-called romantic leads during her servitude at 20th-Fox. But they were in pictures starring Jane Withers, and the romantic sub-plots didn't amount to much.

Mr. Z. Sald: "Hire Her"
The most typical thing about Elyse Knox as a model is the way she got into movies. Studio talent scouts, whose jobs depend on the ultimate success of people they select, seldom consider models. The beautiful gals in the ads almost always are offered screen tests by executives.

Miss Knox happened to be hired in New York to appear in some of those suppy, supercilious, sneering fashion shorts which 20th-Fox persists in producing. Out here, Darryl Zanuck was viewing one of the films in a projection room. When Miss Knox squinted critically and said to an assistant: "Hire her."

The order was flashed east. Elyse Knox was asked to grab a plane for Hollywood. She pleaded for a few days to get ready, but the studio representative was insistent. So she gave away almost everything in her apartment and hurried along. Once arrived, she fidgeted 2½ months without doing anything. In 10½ months she had played small parts in five pictures and asked for her release. RKO hired her and really put her to work.

the three teachers who attended, the theme of the reports being Organize, Study, Teach Religion. Miss Nannie Purkins brought a timely message on the importance of cooperation between the Church School and the Public Schools. Then Miss Mabel Edridge, representing the Public Schools, told interestingly of the making and quilting of a cotton quilt by sixth grade pupils. The devotional, "I Believe in Jesus," was given by Mrs. H. A. Spraggins. Following the devotional a series of sentence prayers was begun by Mrs. J. B. Koonce, and closed by Miss Mamie Brant.

The Nursery Department workers shared with the group their plans for the children under four years of age, and Misses Marie Williams and Claudia Agee cleverly depicted the work of the Nursery Visitor in a short dialogue.

At the close of the program of officers were elected: Chairman, Mrs. H. A. Spraggins; Secretary, Mrs. Leon Bundy. According to the rules of the Church Miss Nannie Purkins, as Primary Department Supt., automatically became Vice Chairman. The second Monday night in each month was selected as a meeting date.

Misses Elise Branch, sister of the hostess, assisted by Miss Marie Purkins, Claudia Agee and Marie Williams, served punch and cake.

The Departments represented at the meeting were: Nursery, Miss Kathleen Branch, Mrs. P. H. Webb; Primary, Miss Nannie Purkins, Mrs. Harry Hawthorne, Miss Marie Purkins; Junior, Mrs. H. A. Spraggins, Mrs. Don Smith, Mrs. J. B. Koonce, Mrs. Leon Bundy. Special guests were: Rev. Kenneth L. Spore, Misses Mamie Brant, Mabel Edridge, Marie Williams and Claudia Agee.

D. A. R.'s Have Monthly Meeting on Tuesday

The January meeting of John Cain Chapter, D. A. R., Hope, Arkansas, was held in the private dining room of the Barlow hotel, Tuesday, January 14, when Mesdames R. M. LaGrone, Sr., R. M. LaGrone, Jr., and Mrs. Surrey E. Gilliam (El Dorado), entertained with a perfectly appointed luncheon. Members and guests were seated at a large round table which had for a central decoration a centerpiece of yellow callulias and neacian in a large crystal bowl which rested on a reflector and lighted yellow tapers in green holders and at a smaller table where the same color scheme was effected.

The singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" preceded the salute to the flag which was led by Mrs. R. L. Searcy and the American Creed, with Mrs. Charles H. Locke leading. The Regent, Mrs. J. J. Battle, continued the opening exercises with the impressive ritual which is always a part of D. A. R. meeting.

Community singing was enjoyed with Mrs. Wilbur D. Jones at the piano.

Mrs. Battle introduced her sister, Mrs. W. T. Woolridge, of Pine Bluff, as her guest; Mrs. LaGrone's guests were Mrs. C. B. Hyatt and her four children, little Miss Effie, Elsie and Masters Carroll, Charles and Bob Hyatt, and Mrs. Syd Henry; Miss Dorothy Searcy of Lewisville was the guest of her mother, Mrs. R. L. Searcy; Mrs. Charles Hill of Okolona was the guest of Mrs. Charles H. Locke and Misses Nancy Hill of Hope and Harriet Harkness of Fulton were guests of the Chapter, being Good Citizenship representatives of their respective schools. Miss Ierne Lester of Lewisville was unable to be present because of illness. Miss Pauline Tolleson of Hope was also a guest of the Chapter, being the winner of the Girl Homemakers award in cotton dress designing. Her entry was exhibited; it will compete with other trophies at the State Conference in Pine Bluff in February.

The minutes of the December meeting were read by the Secretary, Mrs.

E. F. McFaddin and the Treasurer's report was given by Mrs. R. E. Cain. The Registrar, Mrs. Wilbur D. Jones, reported a membership of twenty-six with one paper pending.

The Chapter voted to provide four dozen rose bushes for planting in the Rose Hill cemetery and Mrs. Battle reported that Ivy from Mt. Vernon has recently been planted at the old State Capitol building in Washington, Arkansas, and a live oak has been planted on the grounds as her gift to the Chapter.

Mrs. Charles A. Haynes, chairman of the Nominating Committee, presented the following names: Regent, Mrs. J. G. Martindale; Vice-regent, Mrs. Gus Haynes; Recording Secretary, Mrs. E. F. McFaddin; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. R. M. LaGrone, Jr.; Chaplain, Mrs. R. L. Searcy; Registrar, Mrs. Wilbur D. Jones; Treasurer, Mrs. R. E. Cain; Historian, Miss Mary Carrigan.

All were elected by acclamation. Mrs. Martindale and Mrs. Gus Haynes were elected delegates to the State Conference in Pine Bluff in February, with Mrs. Charles A. Haynes and Mrs. R. L. Searcy, alternates. Mrs. Gus Haynes was elected to represent the Chapter at the Continental Congress in Washington, D. C., in April, with Mrs. Charles A. Haynes, alternate.

Mrs. R. L. Searcy relinquished her program to the Music Committee, Mrs. R. M. LaGrone, Sr., chairman, who stated that Junior Americans always received special recognition from the Daughters of the American Revolution in January and she was proud to present the Hiatt Ensemble who would render the program.

Effie Elise Hyatt opened the program with a piano solo, and she and Carroll Hyatt played "Margold" as brother when played Betcher's "Jolly Darkey" as a violin solo.

Mrs. Hyatt accompanied Master Carroll Hyatt when he played Carl Buhn's "Sarabande," and her two younger sons when they whistled "In a Monastery Garden."

The four children sang "The Bells of St. Mary's," with Mrs. Hyatt at the piano; their encore, "Duna," elicited much applause.

The singing of "America" concluded the program which was one of the most enjoyable ever presented at a meeting of John Cain Chapter.

Saenger — Thursday and Friday

Why 'Third Finger' for Milady's Wedding Ring

'Nerve Runs from This Finger Directly to the Heart'

To provide authenticity, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's research department set itself to the task of learning why the third finger of the left hand was originally selected as the finger on which to wear a wedding ring.

This enlightenment went into the filming of "Third Finger, Left Hand," hilarious comedy of marriage mixup with Myrna Loy and Melvyn Douglas, coming Thursday at the Saenger theatre.

In the "Saturnalia" of Macrobius, research disclosed the origin of the custom. It was believed in ancient times that a special nerve or vein ran directly from this finger to the heart. "Because of this," wrote Macrobius, "the newly betrothed places the ring on the finger of his spouse as though it were a representation of the heart." Custom has varied, however, in different places, the research experts add, in seventeenth century England the wedding ring being worn on the thumb.

"Third Finger, Left Hand" deals with the merry mixups arising when Miss Loy for business reasons invents a fictitious marriage and husband, only to have Douglas cheerfully appear as the spouse of her story. A divorce deal that doesn't work out, complications with other suitors, and other hilarious complications come thick and fast in the comical action that follows Robert Z. Leonard, veteran director of outstanding hits, directed the picture, with a cast of funmakers that includes Raymond Walburn, Bonita Granville, Lee Bowman, Felix Bressart, Donald Meek and Ann Morris.

An unusual collection of paintings was required for one of the comedy episodes. The paintings, supposedly executed by Douglas while on a trip to faraway places, were painted by Warren Newcome, distinguished California artist, and his wife. Eighteen were loaned to the studio for use in the picture. Following the scene the Newcomes got only a portion of the original group back, as Miss Loy, Douglas and others in the company picked out favorites and insisted on being permitted to purchase them.

Elaborate sets include homes of socialites, the art department of a

Packs Plenty of Power —but no "Pack" in the Price!

HOW'S THIS FOR VALUE?
This big, roomy, Buick Special 4-Door Sedan with 115-hp. Fireball straight-eight engine, only $1211.00 DELIVERED HERE!

THIS sleek 1941 Buick is packed with power and value—but you have our word for it, there's no "pack" in the price!

A "pack", as you probably know, is an extra item slipped into the delivered price of a new car.

This hidden price in the charge allows a dealer to offer more for your present car than it is really worth in trade.

You may think you're getting the best of the bargain. But the "pack" in the new-car price often more than makes up for the extra "bait" allowed on your trade-in.

We don't want any part of that kind of practice.

So when you buy a new Buick from us we give you an itemized invoice showing exactly what each charge is for.

But better yet—we give you an iron-clad written guarantee that there are no "padded" items, no "pack" in the price you pay.

You get a good allowance on your present car—an honest price on the new car—and a square deal all around!

And best of all—you get a big, sturdy 1941 Buick with super-roomy style and power-packed Fireball engine—at a price that means more value for your money!

He Maent What He Said

The eighth anniversary of Hitler's assumption of power in Berlin is Jan. 30. This is not exactly a holiday for other countries, regardless of how the Germans may feel about it, but in view of what has happened since, it can scarcely be ignored. No other single event of the decade has cost the world so much.

When Hitler assumed the German chancellorship, few read the significance of the day. So astute an analyst as H. V. Kaltenborn wrote (New Republic, Feb. 15, 1933), "He is sworn to obey the Constitution and is like a lion to do so. The time for a Fascist coup d'etat is past." The March 5 election . . . will not give Adolf Hitler the opportunity to establish his long-heralded "Drittes Reich."

Many others, no less well-informed, felt the same way. This was to be just another phase in the disorderly history of post-war Germany.

It was, unfortunately, six years before Europe began to take Adolf Hitler seriously. The world did not take him seriously when he said to a mass meeting shortly after becoming chancellor:

"We want a break with what a rotten brand of democracy has produced and realize that all that is great can be produced only by the strength of individual personality and that all that is to be preserved must be entrusted again to ability and individual personality, while the parliamentary-democratic system must be fought."

The average reader shrugged and added mentally, "in Germany." And he didn't care much what happened within Germany, especially since it had been teetering on the edge of going Communist anyway. So we all turned to our own domestic troubles, which were plenty.

Had Hitler confined himself to abolishing parliamentary government within Germany, nobody would have cared much, except those Germans who still loved liberty (and there were some). But next came the effort to extend the Hitlerian way to Germany outside Germany; later the effort to extend it to Czechs, Poles, Norwegians, Dutch, Belgians, French, and Danes.

Thus the smallness, once again, of our complex world. An obscure and rather ridiculous-seeming politician comes to power in Germany in 1933, and at the end of 1940 nine nations grovel in the dust of conquest and a coral atoll in the far South Seas is shelled by a passing raider. So far echo the repercussions of that Jan. 30, 1933.

Now at last we learn that when Hitler said, just after becoming chancellor, "the parliamentary-democratic system must be fought," he meant just that.

Come and Get It

What to Eat in Winter—and Why

Mr. duBois, a former food chemist for the government, is a nationally recognized authority on diet.

By WILBUR L. duBOIS, M. A.

Vitamin C guards against colds. Proper Quantities of Vitamin C Fortify Body Against Colds, Flu.

So Jack has another cold. Perhaps he isn't getting enough vitamin C. Susceptibility to colds, influenza and other infections is diminished by the presence of this vitamin.

If Jill is irritable, it's most likely another case for vitamin C. Our growth, teeth, dispositions, pep and resistance to disease are all influenced by vitamin C. It is especially important for growing children.

A surplus is very desirable—not merely a minimum. Stock up well. Fortunately it can be stored.

Millions are spent in the effort to keep young, but little of this goes for vitamin C. There is a definite relation between this vitamin and the health and resistance of the capillaries.

Relative shortage tends to make the capillaries fragile and brittle—a condition accompanying old age. A liberal intake of vitamin C helps retain youthfulness in important ways.

Effect of vitamin C deficiency is widespread among American children. The winter diet is often responsible, though it need not be when the importance of this vitamin is thoroughly understood.

Colds, influenza and other infections are more common during the winter months. Most people blame the weather. It is possible that our winter menus are more responsible than the weather man.

Hunting dandelion greens used to be one of the signs of spring. Now we need not and should not wait until spring to have our greens. The grocer does a very good job in offering vitamin C. It is there for the taking, and the wise meal planner takes it.

Vitamin C has been called the vitamin of uncooked foods. Among the richest sources are oranges, lemons, limes, grapefruit, strawberries, raw cabbage and raw onions.

Only slightly less rich in this vitamin are apples, bananas, peaches, green peas, pineapple, raw turnips, spinach, carrots and grapes. Other foods not containing quite so much, but still important sources, are potatoes, milk, cooked cabbage, cooked onions and sweet potatoes.

Vitamin C is very soluble in water and in the case of cooked foods is apt to be lost. Such foods should be cooked in very little water with the vessel tightly covered.

All liquids should be saved and used in food preparation. They contain valuable vitamins and minerals. The sink doesn't need them—we do.

Jack and Jill aren't going to have scurvy (result of extreme lack of vitamin C) but they may have too many colds and maybe they are too often irritable. Try stepping up on vitamin C.

NEXT: Vitamin D.

New Congress to Consider Changes in Social Security

WASHINGTON — Although defense, aid for Britain and taxes rank as the most important items on the new congress's agenda, there is a long list of lesser matters to keep the statesmen busy.

One of the most important has to do with proposed changes in the social security law.

President Roosevelt in the campaign went on record for increased old age benefit payments. Right now the administration is inclining in the direction of making pensions available to all persons of 65 or over, with a minimum rate of around $25. Significant is the fact that Senator Downey, chief spokesman for the Townsend plan in congress, is in favor with the administration.

Broadening the pension system would presumably wreck the payroll tax system which now supports the social security act's benefit payments. One administration estimate is that the proposed extension would bring the annual pension bill to $2,800,000,000. A flat gross income tax is suggested to meet this cost.

Another social security act change which may be voted comes in connection with unemployment insurance. This section of the act is bringing in a lot more money than it is paying out, and labor groups are demanding that benefit payments be liberalized. One way of accomplishing this might be to set fixed minimum rates for all states.

Waterway Again

A sharp fight may develop in this congress over the long-gedgated St. Lawrence waterway. President Roosevelt this year allocated $1,000,000 for preliminary surveys looking toward additional power facilities on the St. Lawrence. A revival of the old proposal for a combined ship canal and power project is due, and indications at the moment are that such a proposal will have a good chance of being approved by congress.

Another power project also likely to take a good deal of congress's time is the Central Valley project in California. Governor Olson of California has suggested that the huge power and flood control development now

Aussies Go Slogging Along

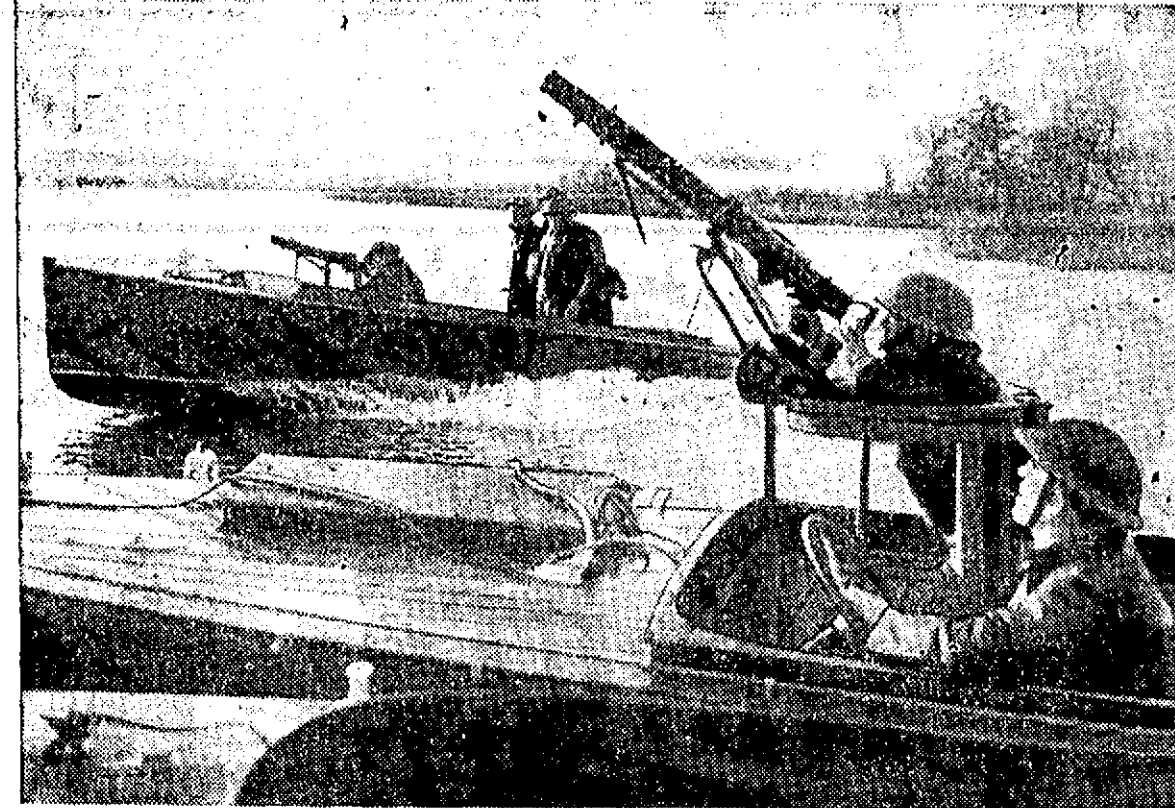

Daily practice in slogging through the burning sands of the Egyptian desert, in the open "safety-first" formation pictured above, hardened Australian troops for their fierce assaults on the strongly fortified positions guarding Italy's important Libyan bases.

Their Country Is Conquered—But They Are Not

Prepared to die—but not surrender—are thousands of soldiers whose countries lie crushed under the Axis military might. Here lighting contingents of them were in the British armies that kept the Italians on the run, out of Egypt and far back into Libya. Such an outfit is this troop, of the famed Polish cavalry pictured on the march across the desert.

On the Lookout for Goering's Sea Hawks

To guard England's inland waterways against possible seaplane landings during an attempted German invasion, and at the same time to train young sailors for the Royal Navy, Great Britain maintains a fleet of small, fast and easily maneuverable launches. These are constantly on patrol, in cooperation with units of the navy and naval air arm. Photo above, shows two launches on duty, with machine guns trained on the sky where the enemy might appear.

"Cavalry" Charge That Crumpled Italians

What defenders of Italy's Libyan strongholds were up against when the British army slashed at them is graphically shown in this photo of a charge by Australian mechanized cavalry over the rolling desert. Swift, bullet-spitting gun carriers like these led the dash that captured Bardia.

Cupid on the Desert?

The cowboy (look at the boots) is Jack Frye, President of Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., and the lady is Mrs. Helen Varner Vanderbilt, who was recently divorced from Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. Will there be a movie cowboy-and-lady ending? Neither would say when, as pictured above, both visited a Phoenix, Ariz., winter resort.

Put Cartography Before the Warhorse

It Duce made the embarrassing mistake of putting his cartographers ahead of the Italian warhorse when he ordered this huge map displayed in Rome's Piazza Colonna at beginning of the invasion of Greece. It shows Greece, conquered, already incorporated into Greater Italy.

Wedding Belles from Norway

Three girls from Oslo, Norway, met aboard ship en route to New York and discovered they had a common purpose in coming to the United States—they all will marry Americans. Pictured on their arrival, they are, left to right: Ellen Knudson, who will wed Per Henry Melhoos of Chicago; Else Hvistendahl, whose fiancé is Werner Marshall, New York broker; and Nina Tunberg, who will marry Benjamin McCartney of Washington.

Foresees Greater Labor Migrations

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, pictured as he testified before the House committee investigating the plight of migratory workers. He foresaw agricultural conditions resulting in more, rather than fewer, migrations from farms.

New Premier Of North Ireland

John Miller Andrews, former deputy Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, moved up a step in the recent elections to become Premier. Andrews, 69, succeeds the late Viscount Craigavon.

Uncle Sam's Youngest Soldier

The Army's no place for softies, but evidently age has nothing to do with it. Private Harry Wohlfiel, Jr., pictured above at Fort Custer, Mich., where he's attached to the 50th Field Artillery, has attained the ripe old age of 15. He's believed to be the youngest soldier in the U.S.

Farewell

Every draft number called, every mobilization order issued, every call to duty brings one long aching moment—farewell. Photo above shows how most of the men called to duty all over the U. S. spend that last minute. Here Charles E. Sherwood gets a farewell embrace from his sister Jean as he and other naval reservists of Washington, D. C., embarked for active duty.

Kenneth Kerner, of Surrey, England, has been interested in air planes since he was a little boy. So it was natural that when he thought about ways in which he might serve his country, he thought of enlisting in the R. A. F. The Air Ministry politely turned down his letter of request, below, saying that there was no plane small enough to train him. So 10-year-old Kenneth went back to his models, above. He'll apply again when he grows up.

Minister Has Strange Hobby

Hope Visitor Investigates Small Islands

Among the visitors at Bible Conference now in progress at Hope Gospel Tabernacle is M. A. Nelson, secretary of P. C. Nelson of Enid, Okla., who has as a hobby, in addition to his religious work, the investigation of the smaller possession claims of the U. S. He has specialized on the island claims of the United States in the Pacific ocean.

Nelson states that there are many islands in the Pacific belonging to Russia, Great Britain, Japan and other powers to which we have such a good claim or treaty that we should erect air and naval bases on them for national defense. Among these are Samarang, Marcus, McKean, Gardner, and Christmas Islands.

These islands were discovered or settled by American navigators and Mr. Nelson believes our claims to them are good. In support of his views he acquired a 3-volume set of Wilkes Voyages. Wilkes was probably the first man to plant the American flag in the Antarctic in 1838-1842.

Although the state department at Washington disclaims any knowledge of the status of the islands in question, prominent statesmen and university professors have endorsed Mr. Nelson's science which he calls micro-geography.

With the Home Agent Mary Claude Fletcher

A New Year and another holiday may be on the way, but in addition to the usual New Year's resolutions, they are likely to bring a flu epidemic with them too, says Miss Mary Claude Fletcher, county home demonstration agent.

The epidemic, which started on the west coast, is expected to increase the pace of its progress eastward with the holiday traffic, and while there is probably not much homecoming can do to keep the epidemic away from their doors, they may be able to decrease the severity of an attack or aid in a more rapid recovery for the members of their family through careful planning of holiday menus and activities.

A diet high in protective foods, and plenty of rest, will help to keep up bodily resistance, a desirable form of health insurance at any time, according to Miss Mary E. Loughhead of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture.

The best protective foods, Miss Loughhead says, are milk and dairy products, vegetables, fruits, eggs and cereals.

The daily diet, to provide health insurance for the family, should include one quart of milk for each child, one pint for each adult, 1 1/2 to 2 ounces of butter, 3 servings of vegetables, one of which may be potatoes and another green or leafy vegetable, 2 servings of fresh fruits or tomatoes, and 2 servings of protein food (eggs, fish, cheese, or lean meat). If fats, sweets and other desirable foods in moderate amounts are added to give additional energy, the resistance of the body will be greatly strengthened, the Extension specialist in foods and nutrition, says.

And holiday festivities and Christmas dinner, notwithstanding, Miss Loughhead warns that heavy foods, overeating and excessive activity should be avoided.

With hundreds of miles of new REA lines being built and energized, 1941 should be a much safer year for Arkansas farm families, says Miss Mary Claude Fletcher, county home demonstration agent.

Due to the good lighting which electricity provides, safety as well as comfort and convenience can be increased. Falling downstairs in the dark is one of the most serious home accidents, and bruises from colliding with furniture because of insufficient light are common, Miss Fletcher says.

According to Mrs. Ida A. Fenton of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture, statistics compiled by the Safety Council show that one person is killed every 14 minutes in the home, one person permanently crippled every three minutes in the home, and one person injured every 6 seconds in the home.

Falls, the Extension economist in home management says, rank highest in causes of accidents in the home. Among the principal causes of falls, she says, are poorly lighted stairways and doorways, causes which can be eliminated by the installation of proper lighting facilities.

For stairway lighting, "three-way" switches are recommended, so that before going from one floor to another in either direction, the path ahead is lighted up. It is easier and cheaper in the long run to install enough switches and convenience outlets at the time the house is wired than to put them in later.

There should be a switch at the doorway of each room. Then it is possible to avoid encounters in the dark with large, heavy furniture.

Here's a good safety suggestion along this line for bedrooms: Place a double convenience outlet near the floor close to the head of the bed. You can plug in a light for reading in bed, and also a small night light close to the floor. A seven-watt bulb used in this fixture is so small its light need not disturb sleepers, but it will light a path across the room if anyone needs to walk about at night.

Another good location for a small night light is in an upstairs hall. Except for such night lights, other dim lights are not recommended, especially the colored ones that are often used. The cost of better lighting is not so high as it used to be, and there is no economy in having poor lights, Mrs. Fenton says.

"Prunes are a winter staple that belong on the pantry shelf right along with flour, sugar, and spices," county home demonstration agent.

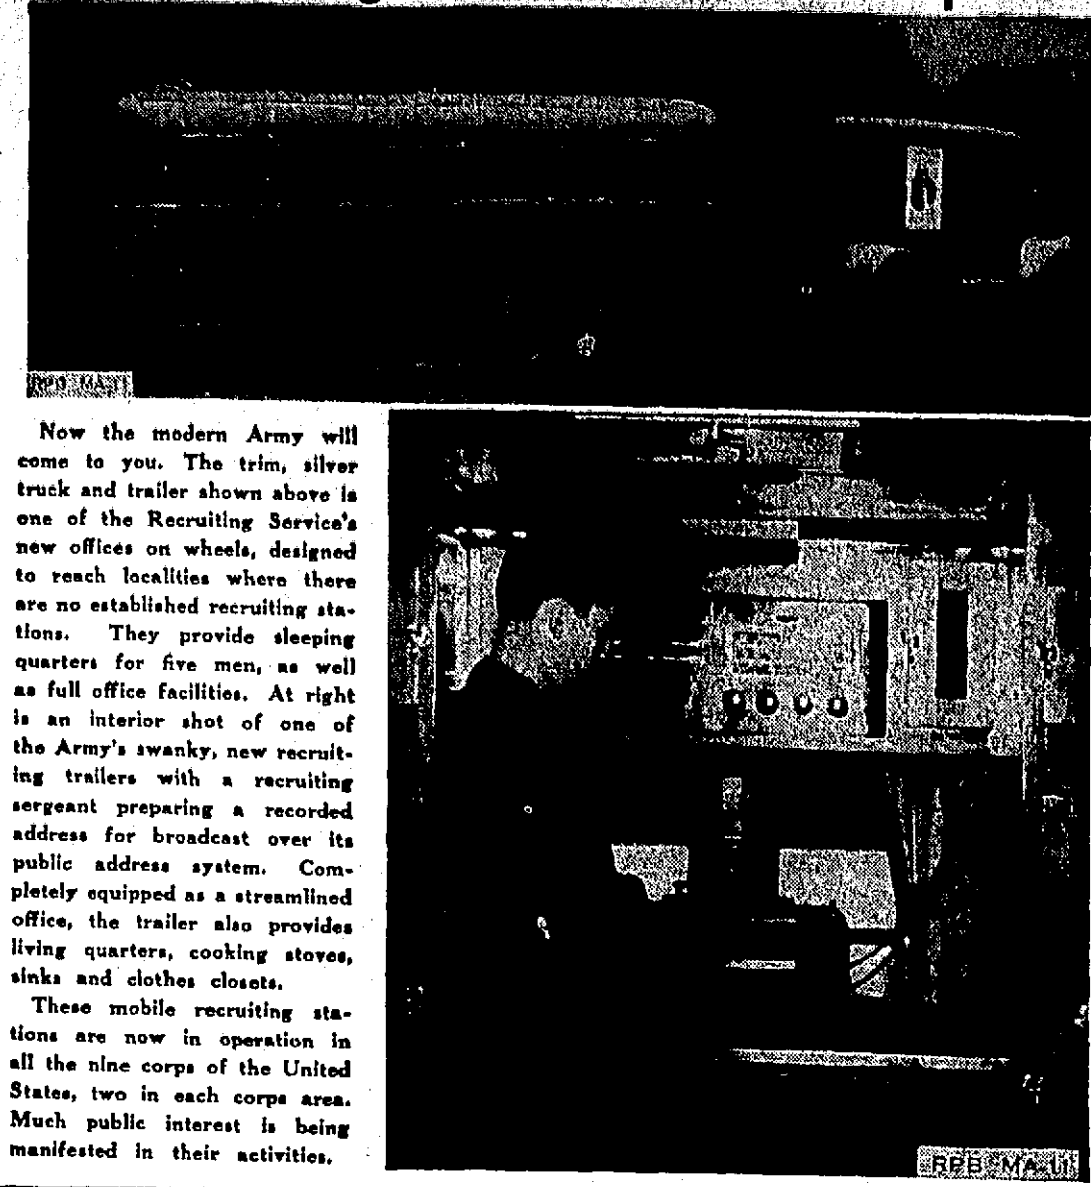

Properly cooked so the yare plump and juicy, prunes are a modest, but good-tasting fruit. They have more taste appeal when spiced up to go with a meat course, combined with cooked cereal for breakfast, mixed with butter or peanut butter for a sandwich filling, or used like fresh fruit in salads and desserts.

You can figure on about 12 servings from a pound of prunes, and the cost is surprisingly low. Miss Mary E. Loughhead of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture, explains this pound of prunes supplies food values, too—in the form of iron, calcium, vitamin A, and vitamin B1.

In deciding on a dessert, the Extension specialist in foods and nutrition says, keep prunes in mind as a filling for dumplings and turnovers, for topping shortcake and upside-down cake, for combining with sugar and beaten egg whites or with whipped cream to make a fruit whip. Prune bread offers another way to use this versatile fruit. Bake like raisin bread with a yeast dough, it is excellent toasted. Or roll the dough out in a thin rectangular shape, spread with butter and a mixture of chopped prunes, nuts, and brown sugar, roll up like a jelly roll, and cut off pieces to make pin wheel rolls. Or keep in one big roll for a roll-poly loaf with prune filling. To put chopped prunes in a quick bread is another idea, especially good when made with whole-wheat flour, to make a loaf of dark brown color high in minerals and vitamin B1.

Honey's color depends on the flowers from which it is made. It may be yellow, white, brown, green, red, or even black.

The Recruiting Service Comes to Hope

Now the modern Army will come to you. The trim, silver truck and trailer shown above is one of the Recruiting Service's new offices on wheels, designed to reach localities where there are no established recruiting stations. They provide sleeping quarters for five men, as well as full office facilities. At right is an interior shot of one of the Army's swanky, new recruiting trailers with a recruiting sergeant preparing a recorded address for broadcast over its public address system. Completely equipped as a streamlined office, the trailer also provides living quarters, cooking stoves, sinks and clothes closets.

These mobile recruiting stations are now in operation in all the nine corps of the United States, two in each corps area. Much public interest is being manifested in their activities.

Properly cooked so the yare plump and juicy, prunes are a modest, but good-tasting fruit. They have more taste appeal when spiced up to go with a meat course, combined with cooked cereal for breakfast, mixed with butter or peanut butter for a sandwich filling, or used like fresh fruit in salads and desserts.

You can figure on about 12 servings from a pound of prunes, and the cost is surprisingly low. Miss Mary E. Loughhead of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture, explains this pound of prunes supplies food values, too—in the form of iron, calcium, vitamin A, and vitamin B1.

In deciding on a dessert, the Extension specialist in foods and nutrition says, keep prunes in mind as a filling for dumplings and turnovers, for topping shortcake and upside-down cake, for combining with sugar and beaten egg whites or with whipped cream to make a fruit whip. Prune bread offers another way to use this versatile fruit. Bake like raisin bread with a yeast dough, it is excellent toasted. Or roll the dough out in a thin rectangular shape, spread with butter and a mixture of chopped prunes, nuts, and brown sugar, roll up like a jelly roll, and cut off pieces to make pin wheel rolls. Or keep in one big roll for a roll-poly loaf with prune filling. To put chopped prunes in a quick bread is another idea, especially good when made with whole-wheat flour, to make a loaf of dark brown color high in minerals and vitamin B1.

Clubs

Hinton

Hinton Home Demonstration club met on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock January 2, at our club house. Mrs. Grady Rodgers was hostess. The meeting was called to order by our president Mrs. Selma Simmons. We began by singing several songs.

The devotional was led by Mrs. Rodgers which was the 11th chapter of John, which was very interesting. Prayer by Mrs. Stella Adams. Roll called, each member answered by telling why we like country life best. We had 12 old members present and six new members were added to our club. We are very proud of them.

Having no unfinished business we took up new business. We had a roundtable discussion then decided to take for our project for this year, "To improve our club house and grounds." We are to beautify our community church (Hinton) groups and to try to help beautify our cemeteries, (New Hope and Palmos). We invite the members of Hinton church to cooperate with us in beautifying the church grounds.

The five house dresses that we made for the Red Cross were reported finished and we volunteered to make some more garments for them. We are starting the new year with a strong determination to build our club back to what it was four years ago. We started with 25 members, but we grew careless and dropped to eight or ten regular attendants this year we are starting with 18. We will soon have our 25 back with us.

We except the card of thanks from Mrs. Stella Adams and family for the beautiful flowers. We tried to show just a part of our love to Mrs. Selma Simmons, our president, by having a handkerchief shower for her. We are proud to have such a noble worker in our club. We were then dismissed to meet again the first Thursday in February. Mrs. Grady Rodgers served dainty refreshments.

Woman's Struggle to Escape Male Tyranny Is Told

When the 20th century opened, women weren't supposed to know about such masculine affairs as business or property or anything not directly concerned with the home. Linger in the final clutches of Victorianism, the more imaginative of the sheltered sex found male tyranny almost insufferable.

About women such as these, in 1900 Rachel Varble has written in "A Time Will Come" (Doubleday, Doran: -2). The women concerned are the three

French Ship to Be Stopped

Vessel Loaded With Food Put Out From Uruguay

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay.—(AP)—The French merchant-ship Mendoza, loaded with food for France, was reported to have been put out from Punta Del Est and to have sailed eastward shortly after noon Wednesday, in a fourth attempt to get past British warships, into the open sea.

(The British minister of economic welfare, said the ship would be intercepted if she had not obtained a navicert.)

The vessel was turned back three times in as many days.

Uruguay officials were confronted with a new problem Wednesday when a British naval plane made a forced landing near Punta Del Est. A crew of three was detained by the Punta Del Est Prefect, while advice was asked of the navy department on whether the fliers should be detained for the duration of the war.

daughters-in-law and the sister of Schward Wright—all subjugated by a single, hated man. As a backdrop to the fight of these women for their personal emancipation is the powerful figure of Susan B. Anthony, past 80, relentlessly battling for the grant of suffrage to all womankind.

Most rebellious is the widowed Sue Ellen, driven to desperation by her father-in-law's granite cruelty toward herself and her 8-year-old son, Stephanie, seeking to divorce Schward's eldest son, without surrendering her property rights, is more determined in her campaign. Enid, weakest of the three sisters-in-law, is content to rely on flattery and persuasion to gain for herself and her husband financial independence.

Nettie, the sister, influenced by blood ties, is unreliable, wavering occasionally in her hatred toward the man who has deprived her of her property and kept her a prisoner. The women scheme together, fearful of trusting each other completely, grasping eagerly at the straw Susan B. Anthony holds out to them. But their causes are selfish ones. Having solved their own problems, they turn from Miss Anthony's cause at a moment when the old crusader needs them most.

Miss Varble's work, though spotted with minor inconsistencies, is absorbing strictly as a novel. It makes small contribution to the story of woman's struggle, except to hint at the barriers against which such women as Miss Anthony fought.

Independent women of today should find in it great comfort in contrast.

You Never Really Know the Value of Money Until You're the One Who Pays—and Pays

By RUTH MILLETT

"That boy doesn't have any idea of the value of money" fathers are always complaining about their high school and college-age sons.

But few Dads take the trouble to do anything about the matter but complain to Mamma.

One father, who did figure out a scheme for teaching his high-school-age son where a family pay check goes, has not been troubled since by complaints about the size of the son's allowance.

For a month that dad turned over his weekly pay check to his son—giving him a list of bills to be paid each week and of the money needed to be put aside out of each pay check to meet monthly bills.

The boy took care of everything. He gave Mamma her household and personal spending money. He paid the maid. He paid for the groceries, laundry, cleaning, for the upkeep of the family car (which he used more than any member of the family). He even paid himself the allowance he had been kicking about being too small.

Dad Got the Best

The plan was that Dad would get everything that was left over. That, the son thought enviously, would be a nice hunk.

But he found out differently the first week. When he had paid all the bills and paid out the family allowances, there was less for Pop than Son had already drawn for his allowance.

The story wasn't very different the next week—or the next. When the month was up, the son had a new picture of his dad. Instead of seeing him as a man who made a good salary but was tight with it, he saw him as a guy who worked hard to earn a good pay check—out of which he received even less than his high school aged son.

This is a true story so it doesn't end with the Son's offering to take a cut in his own allowance. But he never did kick again because he didn't have enough spending money. Maybe other fathers could borrow the idea. There's just one drawback to it. It is likely to make the young men of the country wonder if Dads aren't giving their families an awful lot for what they get in return.

And if young men become that skeptical, girls may have a little more trouble getting them to the altar.
